Thinking of a gift to give her?
Why not try the Fryeburg Flyer?

The Fryer is never, but never a nuisance.
It is a measure of sunshine and pleasure to keep a high seat 'old groom' just by scattering the seeds.

Editorial

The Conway Box Co. plant has sustained operations until April 1st. Moreover if the men report for work on that day they are apt to be fooled.

The men who are trying to adapt themselves to half a loaf, when they are given half the time are trying to figure out the time of their loaf, now that they are given a "full loaf".

However, notwithstanding that business is nearly at a standstill in this usual spring lull, there is a real estate boom, which is rapidly approaching proportions. Lifelong homeowners are selling their holdings for paltry prices; scrubby house lots are being snapped up, and rents are being paid for town pieces; desirable rents are being paid for more than the landlord's asking price, and the landlord is being considerably ask (providing he has a conscience).

Many dwellings are quoted at several times their assessed valuation, and finding ready purchasers. Everybody from the hill down, claims to be making money in these transactions, and many are happy, except the registrar of deeds.

Read the historic Cram edifice, with its picturesque gables overlooking the sea, and the windows of the Corn Shop Brook bridge, is listed for sale.

"Papa" Sawyer has invested in a block on Olney street, "Ves" Hubbard has sold his holdings on Main St. and the homestead of Chas. Gray.

"Ves" has moved several times and Mrs. Hubbard will soon be packing her trunk and leaving another cupboard empty, but as she has become accustomed to the process, she will make no "bones?"
over it.

Mr. Smith and Ben Brown are resolved to have sold their respective homes.

Arthur Hodson and Frank "Paw" Sawyers are preparing to build and sell the snow leavers, and David Charles will also have a rent ready for occupancy as soon as the snows leave.

Although not necessarily satisfactory, we are glad that the town fathers believe in signs, as the Fryer Ed. has a big batch of 'em to point this spring.

We believe in good signs, but if you want a sign, had we can easily point it that way. If you need a wood, glass, galvanized or electric sign, step in, we'll adjust our glasses, galvanize into action and electrify you.

Smith St. Smiles
The Husky Hikers enjoyed a fishing trip to Lovell's Pond one day recently. The fishes enjoyed it, too, as none of 'em got hooked.

"Boner" C. D. Ridlon of Rice Hotel is thinking of putting a "shingle" out, as a private instructor of the ukelele and emotional music. Proprietor Tom sees now where he should have in years gone by, applied that shingle to the seat of "Boner's" emotions, and cured the young man of any such notions.

Though birds may sing of the beautiful snow,
We'll sing the most when we see it go.
On snow, to date, we have been "well fed",
and we long to "feel" dirt instead.
Although we do not "oil" complain about the weather of our old Maine, Still I tell you, it takes the "star" of the "old" to get through snow in March.
And I for one won't pause to weep,
When the grass peeps through and the robins cheer. — E. R. M.

Fryeburg Academy
The debating teams which defeated Brighton last week should be given due praise. Of course we don't expect, in school life that a winning debating team should be accorded a demonstration on the campus, bonfires or ringing of bells, as would be accorded a victorious base ball team; yet to think clearly and argue forcefully before an audience in these practice debates, is helping to cultivate qualities of self confidence, unembar-rassed bearing and poise, which even the champion batter of the nine, might envy in years to come.

Maine Towns' People
Responded Well

Fifty Per Cent. Increase Over Last Year

From reports already received from the towns and cities making appropriations for the publicity fund for the Maine Development Association, everything indicates that the drive is well over the top and that it will be 50 per cent. in excess of last year's appropriations.

Of the 407 towns in the State, reports received to date from 110 which have voted, include 55 towns which made no appropriation last year but have come in with liberal appropriations this year. To date only four towns in the State which made appropriations last year failed to do so this year. They are Staudish, Bethel, Porter and York. Many of the towns and cities have yet to vote but reports from the County Chairmen indicate they will go well over the top with larger appropriations than last year and those cities and towns who made no appropriation last year will do so this year. This is the first direct barometer that those in charge of the State Development program have had to get the true reaction of the people of the State as to the working of the State along Agricultural, Industrial and Recreational lines.

If the action of the people of the State voting at the town meetings can be taken as a true indication of their faith in the beneficial results already received by the publicity campaign, it shows that Maine is united in the work to put Maine in its proper place among the leaders of the states of the Union for future development and industrial and agricultural expansion.

Already the other New England states are sitting up and taking notice as to the results the Maine campaign has brought about and are modelling similar plans after the Maine program. The news and editorial comments in the various New England papers all unite in praise of the foresight and initiative of Maine, and call upon their respective states to "go and do likewise."

If anyone doubts the results of the campaign in Maine and its beneficial results, the last Government reports from Savings Banks and Trust Companies deposits in the State is the best answer as to whether the citizens are undergoing a period of prosperity. These total over $10,000,000 in excess of last year.

It is confidently expected that the work done will bring the largest number of out-of-state visitors to Maine the coming summer than ever before.

SAVE THE SURFACE

More and more are cities surface their main streets and thoroughfares with asphalt. There are four primary reasons for this: the durability of asphalt, its good appearance, relatively low initial cost and almost total absence of maintenance charges—none streets having asphalt surfaces which have been laid for 20 years, with no maintenance whatever.

Fifth Avenue, New York City, has a six-inch Portland cement concrete base with three inches of asphaltic binder, and sheet asphalt surface.

Boston, Massachusetts puts an asphalt top on the old macadam on Commonwealth Avenue, thus saving the entire first investment.

Rhode Island Pine Tree
State Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Rhode Island Pine Tree State Club was held Friday evening, March 19, in the Trinity Community House, Trinity Square, Providence.

The attendance, about seventy-five,
was small owing to the prevalent sickness in this section. The president, Charles H. Greston, gave an enthusiastic and vivid account of his recent winter visit to Maine and the scenes of his boy-hood. The program consisted further of soprano and tenor solos and duets by Mrs. Helen G. Place and William W. De-Roin. A social hour followed and refreshments of doughnuts (the Maine variety), cheese and coffee were served.

The club will hold a special whist, dance and frolic, Thursday evening, April eighth at the church of the Mediator, Elmwood Avenue, Providence.

The next regular meeting will be upon Friday evening, April 16th at the Trinity Community House.

REVIEW—THE GOSPEL OF JOHN

REVIEW—The Gospel of John. GOLDEN TEXT—These are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in His name. —John 20:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Beautiful Stories

TOLD BY JOHN.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Greatest Things

IN JOHN'S GOSPEL.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Great Events in John's Gospel.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Great Teachings of John's Gospel.

Happily we have come to one time at least when the quarterly review is easy and a pleasure. The teacher's supreme aim should be to make Jesus as real to his pupils as He was to the disciples when here upon earth, for the "Word made flesh" is now dwelling among us "of grace and truth" revealing God (John 1:14, 15). The best way to follow the quarter's lessons will be to grasp the central purpose of John in writing his book, gather the central teaching of each separate lesson and use it in proving the central proposition. John clearly states his purpose in 20:31. Two things are set forth in this verse.

1. That Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God.

2. That through believing in Him, eternal life is received.

It should be the teacher's aim to establish this truth and to accomplish this glorious purpose in the lives of all his pupils.

January 3.—In this lesson Jesus is presented as the eternal Word existing with God before all worlds, the almighty Creator, the source of light and life, made flesh in order to reveal God to man.

January 10.—John the Baptist testifies that Jesus is the Lamb of God. This truth was certified unto him by a voice from heaven and the descent of the Holy Spirit upon Him (Matt. 3:16, 17). Another testimony is given by declaring that Jesus is the Messiah of whom Moses and the prophets did write—the very Son of God.

January 17.—Jesus is the bestower of eternal life. He is the only begotten Son of the Father, who gives eternal life to those who believe on Him. Since God alone can give life, Jesus is divine.

January 24.—Jesus testifies to the Samaritan woman that He is the Messiah. His ability to disclose the secrets of the woman's heart and convince her that He is divine.

January 31.—The creative act by which five thousand men, besides women and children, were fed from a few small loaves and fishes, with a superabundance left over, demonstrates the deity of Jesus.

February 7.—Jesus is divine, because He opened the eyes of the man born blind. So unusual was this miracle that such a thing was never heard of "since the world began." The man whose eyes were opened, confessed Jesus and worshiped Him as the Son of God.

February 14.—Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God, because He is the Good Shepherd. In the Old Testament, Jehovah is set forth as the "true Shepherd" (Ps. 23, Ezek. 34). The shepherd departs from the flock to the welfare of his sheep, even to the extent of laying down his life for them. This Jesus did, therefore He is the promised Messiah.

February 21.—Jesus is divine because at His command, Lazarus, a man dead four days, was raised to life.

February 28.—Undivided love to God is man's supreme obligation. The Second Commandment is like unto the first. In that it centers in love.

March 7.—Jesus is divine, because He came from God and went to God (John 1:3). Though Jesus boldly claimed to be the Lord, yet He stooped to render the most menial service to His disciples.

March 14.—Jesus claimed equality with God and therefore asked His disciples to place their faith in Him as the divine being, just the same as in God.

March 21.—Jesus proved His deity by coming forth from the grave. This is the unquestioned seal of His deity.

Water of Life

If ye know what He is preparing for you ye would be too glad. He will not, it may be, give you a full draught till ye come up to the well-head and drink, ye, drink abundantly, of the pure river of the water of life that proceedeth out from the throne of God and from the Lamb.—Samuel Rutherford.

Moody on Enthusiasm

Enthusiasm means "in God"; and I can't understand how any man can realize his standing before God and not be on fire 365 days in the year. Any man who goes into business and doesn't throw his heart into it doesn't succeed. Now, why not go into the Lord's work as earnestly as into athletics?—D. L. Moody.

Purpose of Prayer

The What's the Use Club

Greatest American Organization Now in Its Most Flourishing Condition

By Don C. Seitz—Reprinted from the Outlook

While the United States is beyond all other lands in the extent of organizations with a big O, its greatest agglomeration is unorganized, in the sense that it has no president, no vice-president, no honorary president, or a well-paid secretary. Despite this dispiriting fact, it leads in membership and grows apace. This is the "What's the Use Club." Voters alone are eligible, and about fifty per cent of this class in the country belong. There are no charter members, no directors, and no meetings. It is the easiest club to join, and therefore the most popular. I forgot to say that there are no dues except those the devil is expected to pay.

One of the popular features of the Club is that the person who desires to join needs no proposer or second. No membership committee holds inquest on him, meticulously measuring his merits. Acceptance of the motto is the sole test of eligibility. Having accepted the motto, "What's the Use?" initiation is over, and he or she (for women have here the same privilege as men) becomes at once a full-fledged, working member.

The beauty of the slogan is that it covers every impulse that can be checked, is peculiarly adapted to public affairs, and can even be extended to religious or charitable activities. Its widest field is in exorcising non-appearance at the polls or abstaining from attendance at church services. Some idea of the extent of its membership can be gained by election-day figures. It is estimated that there are 50,000,000 men and women in America of voting age. Only 20,000,000 of them put ballots in the boxes at the last general election.

This leaves each and every one of them quoted their membership in the club as a reason. "What's the use?" ends all argument. When the critic is faced with this query, he is stumped. "What's the use?" he hands himself over to himself. He cannot answer the question.

The root of the Club is found in an earlier slogan, "Let George do it." When George became too busy, "What's the use?" of doing it came into vogue. That somebody should do it, or that any public responsibility lay with them, was farthest from their thoughts.

This easy way of avoiding the duty of a citizen make a wide appeal. Some members of the Club, not quite calm in conscience, repress their misgivings by saying that "politics is a dirty business" and seem to fall back on the Spanish proverb that dirty work should be done in dirty places—by dirty people—while they themselves keep clean.

Such membership in the Club is all right, and even good, but it is not the result, government by parties in the United States is breaking down, and government by blocs and bureaucracies is taking its place. Perhaps we have run out of public issues, and have arrived at the Perfect State. It is well worth while to consider some of the attending circumstances. What has promoted our most successful organization?

There will, perhaps, be a thrill of horror when the opinion is expressed that Civil Service reform has had much to do with it. Under its operations the greater part of public employment has been taken away from the partisan and turned over to a privileged class, protected in their places by law, as no one is in private employment with comfortable pensions ahead at the end of a very reasonable term of service.

The favored holders of these places—and they include policemen, firemen, school teachers, letter-carriers, postal clerks, and all minor officials, including second-class postmasters and assistant postmasters in first-class offices—soon so identify themselves against the people at large. Thus they become potent before Congress and State Legislatures. They are able to force through benefits denied people generally. They maintain lobbies, raise large funds, and have commanders-in-chief as despotic and menacing as the head of the coal miners' union.

Loyalty to a party brings nothing in the way of reward to the ordinary citizen, who but for this system might get an occasional bite out of the public crib. Instead, he is denied a look in except by the long process of examinations and the waiting list that consists mostly of waits. There are no more spoils for the victor. So ambition fails and he joins the Club.

So we have a super-government that cannot be reached by any form of external force, but that is a great power of every twelve persons in the U. S. A. in gainful employment is on some sort of public pay-roll, they constitute a formidable force.

Added to all this, real issues do not exist in tangible form. Those who remain with their party do so, right or wrong. The independent element is too small to swing the balance. The great power lies with the "What's the Use Club," whose members do not go to the polls or affiliate with any party. Thanks to the Club, these are becoming more and more difficult to reach and still.

Through infinite processes of legislation, most matters of consequence, as well as the offices, have been taken away from the people, with the consequent atrophy of the two great parties. Civil reform could and should be a great issue. It has been canned in the hands of a tariff commission owned by beneficiaries. Railroad regulation is similarly situated in an Interstate Commerce Commission that will not let Henry Ford reduce freight rates or permit L. F. Loree to build a line across country in competition with the Pennsylvania and New York Central systems. The Commission had decided that Mr. Ford's proposed rates would annoy other roads and that Mr. Loree's scheme is too expensive—though he proposes to find the money himself.

The great differences aroused by prohibition are inchoate, politically. Thanks to the use of the Constitution in dealing with a summary question, the country is stymied, so to speak. Census counts are dry laws and experiment with something better. We cannot. Both parties are divided on the problem, and it is not possible for the disinterested to seize either one of them and fairly test the issue. We have created so much super-government, bound ourselves with so much tradition and judge-made laws, as to leave the voter helpless to do anything except join the Club. The parties thus become useless as a working remedy against public evil.

With small offices withheld from the people and large ones administered in the main by mediocrities, the country is at a stalemate. It can no longer create or correct by the party method. The attempts to act by third-party movements have been failures. Groups within the existing parties have been the resulting outcome, but cannot produce results. Sooner or later we must create some method by which issues can be brought forth, and simply before the people. If this is not done we are in for a long and complete destruction of popular government.

Henry Clay an Imitator

Not Originator of Tariff Political Issue is Clark's Persistent Statement

Editor of Norway Advertiser: I was gratified at seeing my comment on Henry Clay in the Advertiser of February 12, that the "What's the Use Club" would soon be better. The paper had told of him being ill. You taught me years ago that we should not publish anything of a person too sick to make his own reply. It is a good thing to do, as I now know, on my own account, and I was glad to realize that the Judge was getting along so nicely.

I was also glad to notice in the Advertiser of March 19, his fuller interpretation of his statement about Henry Clay being of a protective tariff. In that, I am dealing with matters that have been poorly treated by the writers of history. I believed that very thing about Henry Clay until a few years ago when a single sentence in a lecture by Harvard College's eminent professor of history, Albert Bushnell Hart, amazed me with an answer to John C. Calhoun. Either ordinary books of history were very deficient in the story of American national financial legislation. I did not dare to criticize a man like Professor Hart, so I took the pains to look the matter up in Boston's great public library.

The first step of my belief was the discovery that R. W. Thompson's "The History of Protective Tariffs" is a grossly incomplete work, really a part, a political tract written. I had already discovered that it had a plethora of words, and I learned that it also had a plethora of ideas and facts.

The father of the American Protective Tariff Policy was Alexander Hamilton, and the first man to make it a partisan political issue was Congressman Thomas Fitzsimmons of Pennsylvania. Mr. Fitzsimmons (name also sometimes spelled Fitzsimons) was elected to the first Congress under the Constitution, after having made a career in which he had determined to make a fight for a protective tariff. Others did the same thing in succeeding Congressional campaigns, and finally John C. Calhoun made it a national political issue. Clay, as a protectionist, "played second fiddle" to Calhoun until the famous South Carolina secession, when he took the lead in the great movement in United States political history and espoused the cause of the free traders.

I picked up Calhoun's discarded trappings and accepted them as good enough for himself. Such action was characteristic of Clay, for the story of his career is that of a man who was always trying to gain preference by policy rather than by principle. He was a man of great energy and ability, but he was not a man of great principle. He was a man of great energy and ability, but he was not a man of great principle.

Before the Judge writes his eulogy of Clay, I will please read the platforms adopted by this party convention. I would be delighted to read a great many of them weekly. They are well worth while to me and probably to hundreds of other Advertiser readers.

E. vestry. A covered dish supper served at 6:30 was managed by Ella Whitney, Elsie Robinson, May Hauscom, Annie Poole, Ethel Walker. Following the supper the social committee, Ida Reed, Leathie Stiles, Ida Stone conducted a very interesting program of games and stunts. The first of which was the cat and dog penant hunt. The party was divided into two groups with Ella Whitney, Louise Wood acting as captains. Each group started the hunt and as penants were found the captain was called to collect them by her means from the cats and the bark from the dogs. "It is surely was a merry laugh when the cats meowed and the dogs did bark."

Contest was won by dogs. (Mrs. Wood's side). Other winners of prizes were Evelyn Farrington, who won the potato race; Hazel Marshall and Florence Davis winners of game, adding missing words to old sayings. The program concluded with a game called white elephant. All were seated in a circle, given a package, one of which was quite large called the white elephant. As music started packages were kept in circulation, object of game was to avoid the large package, passing it along quickly. As the music ceased Fred Culbert was in possession of the elephant which proved to be a chicken fully dressed in more ways than one, as it represented in costume a large doll, it was also dressed ready for the party. It is hoped that more of these get-together affairs will be held in the future.

"YOU ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW THE FACTS"

DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

Driver Escapes/

injury when all steel car turns upside down

An icy pavement between Piqua and Dayton, Ohio . . . traffic complications . . . and the car shown above plunged through a wire fence and turned completely over.

"The driver," reads the report, "only found it necessary to operate the window crank in the left front door and crawl out. He had not received a scratch."

Lucky motorist to have been driving a Dodge Brothers all steel sedan!

Imagine what would have happened, under similar circumstances, to a motor car with a body of wood—and to the driver!

Every automobile body should now be all steel just as every sleeping car is now built of steel.

All steel bodies are safer. Anyone knows that. Steel doesn't splinter. Steel doesn't burn. Steel is tough and strong the modern ship metal—the modern bridge and building metal.

That's why Dodge Brothers built the first all steel touring car eleven years ago—the first all steel closed car four years ago—and this year pioneered

The car will continue to be a "four".
